

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

TOP OFFENSIVE LINEMAN OUT OF NEW YORK COMMITS TO WCM

JANUARY 19, 2014, CHICAGO, IL – With the University at Buffalo football season wrapped, one of the school's most dominant offensive lineman in recent memory, 6'4 315 lb. Andre Davis, has signed with Brian Brundage and Matt Searce of Worldwide Career Management as his NFL representation ahead of 2015 NFL Draft.

During his time as a Bull, Buffalo laid claim to one of the most dominant rushing attacks in the Mid-Atlantic Conference. In 2012, three rushers were able to surpass the 500-yard rushing mark, which proved it wasn't who had the ball in their hands, but rather who was clearing the way.

Often times with offensive lineman, you won't see flashy highlight films or individual stats that tell their story. Instead it's the production around them that is generally indicative of their performance.

In that case, Davis has one of the most productive resumes a lineman could boast, having cleared the way for former Buffalo running back and current San Diego Charger, Branden Oliver, who holds the school's all-time rushing record with 4,049 yards and 33 touchdowns.

When asked about blocking for Branden Oliver he said, "His (Oliver's) achievements are very impressive and I don't see his record going down for some time." He credited his team's rushing success to "everyone holding each other accountable at all times and being a tight knit group."

In addition to his obvious blocking talents, the fact that he started 48 games in his career is an indication of his durability. In fact, in 2012 he earned the team's Workhorse Award, which is given to the player who played the most snaps.

Davis considers himself to be a "blue collar worker." When asked what that means to him he said, "I show up to the workouts ready to go and get the job done to the best of my ability. During the season I stay healthy by working hard in the weight room as well as stretching every night before bed." He considers his greatest strength as a blocker to be his vision. Davis said, "prior to the snap I usually have an idea of how the defense is going to react. I have acquired this through hours of studying film."

The 2015 NFL Draft kicks off in Chicago on April 30. Until then, NFL coaches, scouts, and sports analysts will be busy exhaustively reviewing each player's film, pro days and combine performances. For Davis, there have already been mock drafts projecting him as early as the 4th round.

Scouts will have their next opportunity to check out Davis during his pro day at the University at Buffalo and during private workouts.

To learn more about Davis, visit <http://www.worldwidecareermanagement.com/AndreDavis/>.

Worldwide Career Management (WCM) is a full service management firm that specializes in the marketing and branding of professional athletes. Services include contract negotiations, marketing, sponsorship endorsement and public relations. WCM promises personal and exclusive relationships with each of its clients, with the goal of ensuring a secure "LAB" (Life After Ball), well before their playing career has ended. Information can be found at www.wcm.us.

Contact:

Brian Brundage, Manager/Agent
Nick Erickson, PR Contact

813-917-3833
813-802-8670

brian@wcm.us
nick@wcm.us